Resume of the Gazetteer

N O T E. (Progress Report).

As Chapters II & III (Flora and Fauna) of the Mysore Gazetteer are not yet ready, I think it desirable to put up a brief progress report up to 1st April (about).

2. Chapter I has been provisionally passed with the approval of the Member.

3. As regards Chapter II, a draft of the Forest Section as revised a second time by me has been sent to the Conservator of Forests for opinion. The existing section (pp.68-81) is partly based on the Forest Report for 1869-70 by Captain Van Someren and partly on Cameron's "Forest trees in Mysore and Coorg".

As regards the classification of Forest belts, the one given in Van Someren's report has been modified by the later one given on pages 4 to 8 of the Commercial Guide to Forest Economic Products (published in 1917).

Further, the long descriptions in small print of about 104 species of Forest trees in the chapter on Flora seem to be unnecessary (a) firstly because this is not done in the corresponding chapters of the Indian Empire Gazetteer and of the Provincial Gazetteers (b) secondly because it is proposed to embody the minimum descriptive material (about the economic uses of the most important species) in a one hundred & four

the section on Forests in the Economic chapter (which under the heading "Art and Industry" is at present rather defective in Rice's Gazetteer) referring the reader to the Commercial Guide and Cameron's Forest trees for further details, (c) thirdly because these long descriptions in small print obscure the essential features of the forest flora in Mysore.

4. So much as regards the draft section: It is also proposed to illustrate the forest section by a map or maps showing the distribution of the forest belts, sandal and other important forest trees; one map showing the forest belts and sandal has been sent by the Conservator of Forests and a copy of it on a reduced scale will be taken after a draftsman is appointed.

The present map at page 168 of Rice's Gazetteer is rather confusing as it is not confined to forests and forest products.

5. The remaining sections of chapter II (Flora)

(a) The sections on Fruit trees, Vegetables and Horticulture have been revised with the help of the Superintendent of Government Gardens; but I confess that I am not sure of their being up to date and would like to have them revised by the Botany expert of the Agricultural Department.

I desire especially to invite attention to pages 85 to 100 of Rice's Gazetteer which give a long catalogue of plants cultivated in the Lal Bagh. Such a long list of 15 pages is not given in any other Gazetteer (Indian, Bombay or Madras).

X Give also the latest provincial Geographies of India published by the Cambridge University Press

What seems sufficient is a description of the most important orders, genera and species referring the reader for further details to any standard works on Indian Horticulture and Botany. I propose--unless instructed otherwise--to address the Director of Agriculture on the subject with reference to the order recently issued.

(b) The section on crops and cultivation.--- This consists of pages 101 to 173 (or 73 pages) and much of it is based on Buchanan's book. The Director of Agriculture has already pleaded his inability to revise this section.

But after having considered the subject, I have arrived at the conclusion that the section on crops may be condensed into a few pages so far as the chapter on Flora is concerned and that ~~the~~ descriptions of implements and methods of cultivation may be relegated to the section on Agriculture in the Economic Chapter, as is done in the Indian Empire Gazetteer. It may perhaps be urged that this is merely putting off the inevitable. But as the Assistant has joined, he may, during his tours, be requested to revise on the spot the descriptions of the methods of cultivation given on pages 101-173 and the revised section will be ready for incorporation in the Economic Chapter.

6. Chapter III of Rice's Gazetteer.--

(a) Section on Ferae Naturae.--This has been revised with the help of the Officer in charge of Game Preserves and of the Superintendent of the Lal Bagh. But the Assistant Professor of Zoology in the Central College says it is not up to date and the file is pending before the Dewan. A reply from the Rev Comm'r

Has been returned with orders requesting grant of rewards for the destruction of wild animals is also due

The long lists at pages 181-190 and 191-193 seem to require curtailment as they are more appropriate in a treatise on Fauna than in a Gazetteer. What is given in the Indian Empire Gazetteer and the Provincial Gazetteers is a description of the most important species of wild animals with reference to the orders, genera and species and the referring of the reader to Bibliography for further details. As regards the section on Domestic Animals, it is nearly ready, replies being due from the Superintendent of Sericulture and the Chief Commandant, Mysore State Troops, on certain points relating to sericulture and Amrut Mahal respectively.

There is, however, some doubt as to whether it should be retained in the chapter on Fauna in accordance with the present arrangement or should be tacked on to the section on Agriculture in the Economic Chapter as is done in the Imperial and Provincial Gazetteers.

After some consideration I have decided--subject to approval--to retain it in Chapter III and make a reference to it in the section on Agriculture, the object being to avoid making unnecessary radical changes in the arrangement of Rice's Gazetteer.

7. Chapter IV of Rice's Gazetteer.

This deals partly with Ethnology and partly with population-to adopt the new nomenclature. As regards Ethnology, I do not profess to be an authority and must rely on books or other authorities for help.

As regards population I shall write or rather revise the section.

8. Chapters V, VI & VII of Rice's Gazetteer.

Chapter V (History) and Chapter VII (Language) are under revision by the Director of Archaeological Researches.

Chapter VI (Religion) is under revision by the Muzrai Superintendent.

10. Chapter IX. (Administrative).

A large collection of General and departmental Administration Reports has been made; and further additions are being made from time to time according to necessity.

Sections have also been received from certain Heads of Departments on some subjects. This chapter(which is probably the most important in Volume I) will be written by me.

11. Work to be done by the Assistant.

I have provisionally given the revision of Vol.II of the Gazetteer to the Assistant and instructed him about its revision. Of course it will be done under my supervision. A further note on this subject will be put up after the work makes some progress.

maps in Rice's Gazetteer are those at pages 12, 36, 63, 168, 300, 314, 334, 356 & 368. There are also illustrations of coins at pages 802 and 807.

The Indian Empire Gazetteer has a separate Volume of maps, the number of such maps being 64 (28 general maps plus 20 provincial maps plus 16 plans of towns). A monthly allowance of Rs.25/- for drawing maps &c., has been allotted in connection with the revision of the Gazetteer; but this has not yet been utilised pending the appointment of a draftsman. I should like the intention of Government to be clearly laid down in this matter as this is a point on which there is likely to be considerable difference of opinion.

As regards maps, charts and diagrams, I have had considerable experience as Census Superintendent, the Census Report for Mysore being specially illustrated with such maps, charts and diagrams.

I think a judicious use of such maps &c., is essential for the proper understanding of the letter-press. In fact, for the sections on Geology and Meteorology, the officers concerned have already furnished me with Geological and Rainfall maps.

Separate proposals will be made about the appointment of a draftsman.

(b) Arrangements necessary for ensuring that the third edition of the Gazetteer is thoroughly up to date.

It may be taken for granted that the 3rd edition of the Gazetteer will be subjected to the expert criticism of the press &c., when published; and hence it is that I have dealt at so much length in the previous paragraphs with the difficulties of the task.

The objects aimed at by me throughout have been

(a) That the 3rd edition of the Gazetteer should compare favourably as regards arrangement and subject matter with the Indian (Imperial) Gazetteer while retaining the best features of the 2nd edition of the Mysore Gazetteer.

(b) That as regards maps &c., either a separate volume may be made as in the case of the Imperial Gazetteer or the maps &c., inserted in their proper places as in the 2nd edition of the Mysore Gazetteer and of the Mysore Census Report for 1911.

(c) That expert assistance should be freely made available in the case of technical subjects as superficial revision in such subjects like Botany, Zoology, Ethnology, History and Archaeology, Religions, Language and Literature will be a shortsighted policy. To carry out the above objects and the instructions of Government in the order recently passed, I shall draw up brief notes on each of the above and other subjects and request the help of the officers concerned.

I am respectfully of opinion that the cost of revising the Gazetteer as has been already sanctioned is heavy and that further additions should not be made to it.

With a whole-time editor and Assistant Editor such help in the revision of technical matter as is necessary should be obtained from the heads of respective departments without taxing them too much with drafting other detailed & clerical work.

1. Preliminary.

I am glad that another opportunity has been afforded me for clearing up the doubtful points and for making my proposals better understood.

2. Full-time Editor.

The Financial Secretary's remark about the full-time Editor no longer holds good, as the Editor has, in addition to this work, since been made Director of Statistics.

3. Question of expenditure.

With regard to the Financial Secretary's remark that the cost already incurred is heavy and that no further addition should be made to it, it may be stated that no reasonable expenditure is too heavy for the production of a really good Gazetteer.

Further, I shall now proceed to show

(a) That the total expenditure which will be incurred according to my proposals will compare favourably with the expenditure incurred for issuing the 2nd edition of the Gazetteer.

(b) That my proposals for the revision of the 2nd edition of the Gazetteer involve much more trouble than was at first anticipated by me or Government.

(c) That the expenditure to be incurred by way of honoraria need not exceed a maximum of

Rs.2,000/- (two thousand) and that even this can be reduced if not totally dispensed with, if the Heads of Departments or the Officers concerned take a generous view of their responsibilities in the matter; and that the grant of honoraria is intended to reduce the ultimate cost of the Gazetteer, paradoxical as this may appear at first sight.

4. Points referred to in para 3.

(a) Comparison of the present expenditure with that incurred for the revision of the 1st edition in 1892-98.--The revision of the 1st edition occupied 6 years as the papers will show; while the present revision will occupy not more than 5 years at the most (including the three years already taken by the Director of Archaeological Researches). Further an honorarium of Rs.5,000/- was then paid while I propose only Rs.1,800/-.

or two years excluding the period

(b) Comparison of the quality of the 1897 Gazetteer with that of the one to be produced. This is a very delicate matter to touch upon. But it cannot be entirely omitted in a discussion of this kind. Mr. Rice was an acknowledged expert in History (including Archaeology), Religion, Language and Literature and the chapters on these subjects do not therefore require more revision than is required by the lapse of 20 years since the issue of the 2nd edition. But as regards subjects like Geology, Botany, Zoology, Ethnography Ethnology, Industry and Administration, I think that the services of experts were not sufficiently utilized and the result is that these chapters could not have been thoroughly up to date even at the period of their publication.

NOTE—Contn. sheet.

Serial No.

As regards Geology, I have already brought to the notice of the Government, the letter from Dr. Smeeth to the Director of Archaeological Researches that certain matter in the 2nd edition of the Gazetteer might be retained if the object was merely the filling up of space. I have no desire to wax eloquent over such a blunt and suggestive remark.

I have also brought to the notice of Government the letter from the Assistant Professor of Zoology in the Central College about the necessity for a thorough revision of the chapter on Zoology.

These facts coupled with the fact that the Indian Empire Gazetteer has been taken as a model, will explain the arduousness of the revision.

(c) Amount and object of honoraria.--Of all the Heads of Departments, the Director of Mines and Geology has been most prompt in giving drafts of sections both for Volumes I and II of the Gazetteer.

If other Heads of Departments and other Officers concerned had followed suit, there would have been no necessity for me to propose the grant of honoraria to them at this stage.

To take one example, I may instance the case of the Director of Archaeological Researches. He is responsible for the chapters on History, Archaeology, Language and Literature on which he is an acknowledged expert. Yet although 3 years have elapsed since the revision of the Gazetteer was ordered by Government, the Director is not ready with the revised chapters. It is to discuss this--not a pleasant thing for me to dilate upon--and other difficulties which prevent Heads of Hepartments like the Director of Agriculture, Muzrai Superintendent &c., from prompt compliance with my requisitions that I have suggested the inclusion of the subject of the revision of the Gazetteer in the agenda for the June meeting of the Heads of Departments and Deputy Commissioners: The proposed grant of honoraria is intended to hasten the revision of the technical portions of the Gazetteer and thereby reduce the time and therefore the cost involved in the revision of the Gazetteer. To make matters clear, I shall specify below the technical portions of the Gazetteer and the amount of honoraria proposed.

He kept dunning others! COS

Part II. Archaeology and History (including the materials required for the Historical and archaeological portions of Volume II of the Gazetteer) 1,000. (one thousand)

No grant of honorarium is necessary for other portions of the Gazetteer.

If by the grant of the above honoraria (Rs.1,800 at the most), the period of 18 months fixed by Government is reduced by 3 or 4 months, the increased cost necessitated by the grant of honoraria will be more than compensated by the decrease of expenditure on account of the temporary establishment &c., employed on the Gazetteer work during the period thereby saved.

As I have already stated in para 3(c), the grant of even this honorarium is unnecessary if the officers concerned waive the claim in a generous spirit.

2. It is represented that in order to avoid - future Press criticism and ensure the speedy and satisfactory completion of the work, it is necessary to take expert assistance in revising the chapters on technical subjects. Some of the Heads of Departments having expressed their inability to undertake the revision of the portions of the Gazetteer relating to their Departments, Mr. Thyagaraja Iyer proposed that suitable honoraria - up to a total sum of Rs.5,000 - may be paid to contributors on technical and special subjects like Religion, Language and Literature, etc.

5. The Second Member of Council supports the proposals and is of opinion that they may be sanctioned with the modification that the Archaeological Department should not get any honorarium exceeding Rs.250 as it has spent three years on the revision work with no result and has now two full-time officers who can furnish materials on archaeological and historical portions.

6. I agree with the above view and request that the proposals of Mr. Thyagaraja Iyer, as modified by the Second Member of Council may be graciously sanctioned.
